MEET UP

WHERE BUSINESS HAPPENS

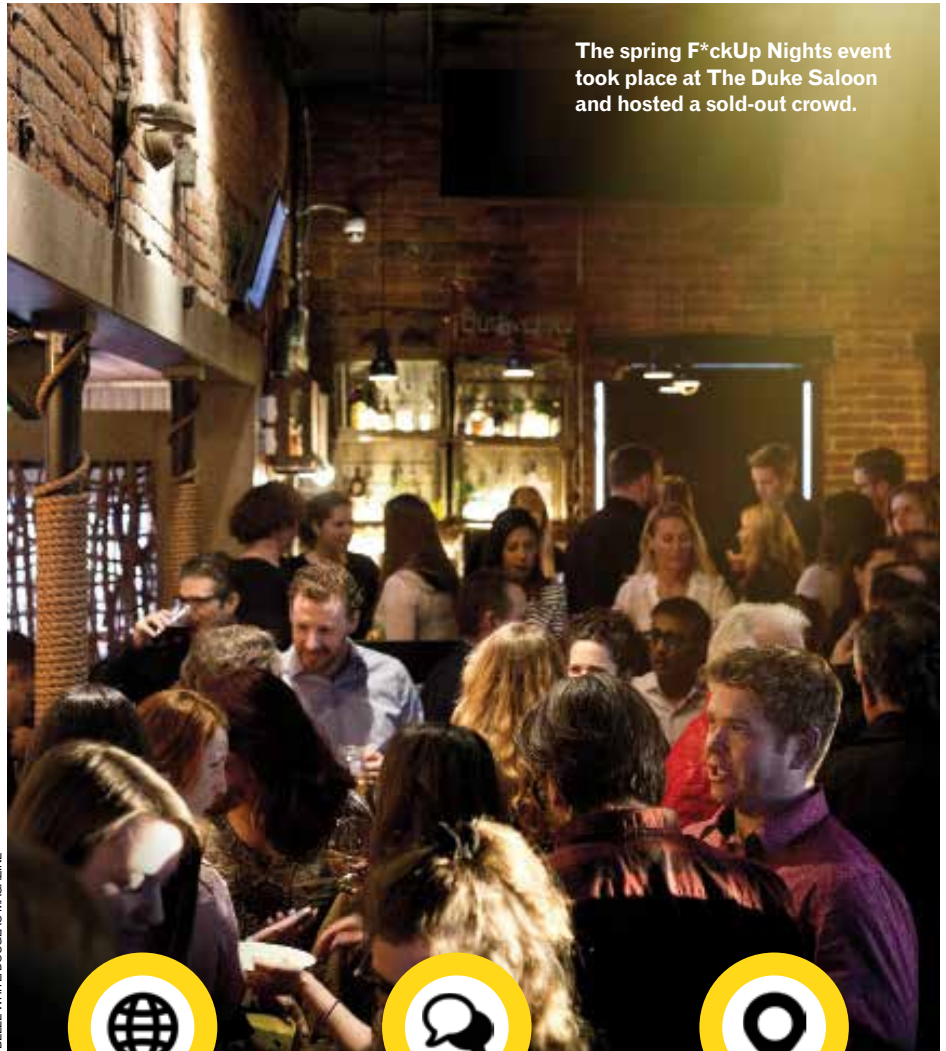

"It's a load off our shoulders. They asked us to do it about a year ago, but we weren't over the hump or ready to look back and laugh yet..."

What F*ckUp Nights did was make us feel like 'It's not just your problem anymore — because people know your story.' Working through the process of preparing and putting things in logical order helped identify what our f*ckup actually was."

— SCOTT DEWIS, RACEROCKS 3D

F*ckUp Nights are raw, riveting and inspiring

The spring F*ckUp Nights event took place at The Duke Saloon and hosted a sold-out crowd.

FAILURE IS GLOBAL

F*ckUp Nights is a global movement launched in Mexico City in 2012. Presenters, typically entrepreneurs, get seven minutes and 10 slides each to tell their stories of failure, followed by Q & As and networking.

... AND LOCAL

Launched in Victoria in 2016 by Jim Hayhurst and Ian Chisholm with VIATEC, local F*ckUp Nights typically draw 250 people together to learn from presenters and celebrate their courage to tell the real stories.

CAN YOU RELATE?

There's something down to earth and meaningful about F*ckUp Nights. As one participant said, "Hearing about how other people screwed up really causes you to reflect on your own moments of failure. You get honest, fast."
